ROSTERS

USING THE FLEET ROSTERS

Each vessel has a series of damage trackers (tick boxes), which are used to determine the effects of damage during a game. You'll need to copy out or photocopy a ship roster for each vessel and fortification in your fleet.

Damage Trackers

There are several locations on each roster. These are usually High, Low, Waterline and Crew. The main rules dictate which location is hit. If a vessel doesn't have a high or waterline location on the roster, then the Low location is automatically used. High locations are usually subdivided into types of mast, and it's important to work out which mast is hit before you start to cross off the damage. Once the location is determined, damage points are crossed off the tick boxes, starting at the top row if applicable, and working left to right. Whenever you reach a shaded box, apply the effects written at the end of the row immediately, then carry on to the next row down if there is one.

Extra Crew

Some vessels have a faded box on their Crew rating tracker. This is because these vessels can take upgrades, or receive Admiralty bonuses, which increase their Crew rating. Only use these faded boxes when you have the relevant upgrade.
